WORRIED ABOUT YOUR CAT'S BEHAVIOR?

When cats are faced with challenging situations and have difficulty coping, they can exhibit behavioral changes. Many of these changes are easily noticeable, but there are also changes that manifest internally that are more difficult to recognize. These changes can negatively affect a cat's overall health and quality of life.

Common Signs of Fear/Anxiety

Cats need a consistent routine and steady environment to feel comfortable. They may have trouble coping with changes, big and small. Help your cat cope better with situations such as: moving, fireworks, loud noises, traveling, veterinary visits or a new baby or a new pet.

What Can You Do to Help?

- 1 Try to identify the source of your cat's change in behavior
- 2 Ask your veterinarian for advice
- 3 Consider giving your cat Zylkene to help them cope with changes to their routine

WHAT IS ZYLKENE®?

Zylkene is a balanced behavior supplement that has been shown to help cats cope with stress. It is derived from milk through a process that mimics what happens when a newborn digests milk from it's mother.

When Can Zylkene Help My Cat?

Zylkene can help your cat cope with new situations and changes to their routine. Zylkene is a great first line of defense against mild to moderate stressors.

Zylkene can help you and your cat cope with these events smoothly:

Changes to their environment...

...and unusual situations.

WHY SHOULD I TALK TO MY VETERINARIAN ABOUT ZYLKENE®?

If you answer YES to any of these questions, your cat might need help coping.

- 1 Has your cat reacted negatively to a change in your routine at home?
- 2 Does your cat increasingly scratch and/or destroy things around the house?
- 3 Does your cat meow/vocalize more than normal?
- 4 Has your cat started eliminating outside of the litter box?
- 5 Has your cat been exhibiting any unusual behavior? Look for changes in mood, sleeping habits, appetite or social interactions with you and other people or pets.
- 6 Does your cat dislike going to the veterinary hospital for an exam?

Zylkene is a non-sedating supplement that helps your cat stay calm during challenging and unusual situations.

How to Give Zylkene

Short Term Use: begin administration 1-2 days before the anticipated event or change in environment. Some cats may need earlier administration (5-7 days). If possible, administer Zylkene before your cat exhibits signs of stress related to the short term event.

Long Term Use: Zylkene should be administered for 1-2 months before assessing response. Additional environmental enrichment and a behavior modification program may also help in these situations.

Zylkene can be administered at meal time. The capsules may be given whole or opened.
